

Silent counting – Good team game

The group has to count a certain number set by the catechists or leaders and the young people sit in a circle in silence, they each shout out a number in sequence, the aim is to take it in turns but they can't go round the circle. This takes great skill from the group and concentration; they keep trying until they reach the set number given to them.

